Welcome to the Faculty of Social Sciences at The University of Hong Kong. You have some difficult decisions to make but exciting times ahead. Coming to University is a chance for you to explore your future while learning about what kind of person you are and want to be. You can take the first steps in a long and prosperous career but you can also challenge your values and decide what is really important.

The Social Sciences are all about people; you will find the different ways we study people inside this prospectus. One thing the COVID-19 pandemic has taught us is how important social connection is in our lives! So we feel that it is more important than ever to study and understand how people relate to each other, support each other, come into conflict with each other, and live together. Our programmes seek to do this by encouraging students to grow through new experiences. Our students all have an international experience during their studies, so that they get a different perspective on the world. Our students also complete a “Social Innovation” internship, where they spend time in an organisation off-campus and help with real problems and issues in the community.

Our largest degree is the Bachelor of Social Sciences; we also offer this degree in a joint programme with the Faculty of Law through Government and Laws, as well as a joint degree with the Faculty of Education. We also offer Bachelor’s degrees in Social Work (BSW) and Journalism (BJ).

We also offer an integrated Bachelor of Arts and Sciences degree in conjunction with the Faculty of Arts and the Faculty of Science. Students are free to study subjects from across the Arts, Sciences, and Social Sciences, and learn how to harness interdisciplinary knowledge between them. We offer individualised academic guidance to help students design a course of study that best suits them. If you want to explore your passions, this programme may be for you.

Ultimately, we strive to help develop critical thinkers with strong values of inclusiveness, who see the value in diversity and taking someone else’s perspective. We think our graduates will be well-placed to help tackle problems in their communities around them, as well as some of the biggest problems facing us all. Afterall, many of our problems are social. Climate change is a physical problem but the only barrier to a solution is getting everyone to agree on what to do. Health is increasingly an issue that is affected by social processes like migration, urbanisation, nutrition, and physical activity.

Our graduates get jobs as social workers, psychologists, teachers, journalists, civil servants, data scientists, human resources professionals, and many more. If you are fascinated by how people live, work, and play, and want to help solve problems both big and small, then join us!

Professor William G Hayward
Dean of Social Sciences
GEOGRAPHY

The Department of Geography is the first and foremost geography department in Hong Kong. Since its inception, the Department has trained nearly 3,400 undergraduates including some world-class academics, prominent government officials, business leaders and senior professionals, etc.

The Department offers well-structured courses to keep students abreast of the most up-to-date knowledge and contemporary issues in Hong Kong and in the world. With strong emphasis on people-environment interactions, students will have the opportunities to investigate various phenomena and dynamics, for instance, climate change, economic and regional development, ecosystem services, globalisation, natural hazards, public health, sustainable development, tourism, transportation and urbanisation and so forth, in the rapidly changing world.

POLITICS AND PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION

The Department of Politics and Public Administration is a founding department of the Faculty. During the past decades, the Department has contributed to the development of its discipline both locally and internationally through dedicated teaching, research and knowledge exchange.

Students are exposed to basic concepts and general features of political systems, as well as the organisation and functions of government. The specialist streams comprise comparative politics, international politics, political theory and ethics, and public administration.
PSYCHOLOGY

The Department of Psychology is the oldest department of psychology in Hong Kong, and has been consistently ranked as one of the best in Asia. Our new multi-disciplinary Neuroscience degree programme is the first of its kind in Hong Kong.

Through our programme, students gain a broad knowledge of psychology, learn applicable research skills, and have opportunities to pursue specialised interests. Our courses are taught by experts in their fields, and span a range of areas including social psychology, cognitive psychology, developmental psychology, psychopathology, therapeutic psychology, and neuroscience. Students also receive training in research methods, and have opportunities to gain research experience in one of the many cutting-edge laboratories in the department, such as research internships and independent research projects.

SOCIAL WORK AND SOCIAL ADMINISTRATION

The Department of Social Work and Social Administration is the first social work training institute in Hong Kong's history of professional social work education. Since 1950, it is our core mission to provide rigorous academic and professional training in social work. We are also a leader in counselling, behavioural health, expressive arts therapy, mental health and gerontology education. Our commitment to improving the quality of life of people has kept our social work education at the forefront of the changing social welfare landscape. Many of our graduates are now social work leaders in the region. Others became esteemed clinical practitioners, government officials, directors and senior managers in NGOs, as well as professors in major universities.

The Department also offers two majors/minors in ‘Social Policy & Social Development’ and ‘Counselling’ for the Bachelor of Social Sciences Programme to provide students with solid foundation in social sciences, social consciousness, effective communication and problem-solving skills. Graduates are best equipped for positions of Officers in the government which finances and administers the largest bulk of social services, or planning and management positions in non-governmental and private agencies, etc. Graduates can also pursue further studies in practical cutting-edge evidence-based postgraduate programmes provided by the Department (e.g. Master of Social Work, Master of Social Sciences, and Master of Philosophy, etc.).
The Department of Sociology, founded in 1967, has a long tradition in research and teaching about local cultures and societies. With the advent of large scale social transformations, this sociological lens on everyday life and cultures has broadened, framed within a global context.

Sociology provides students with critical analytical and methodological skills for understanding individuals and their connection to communities and societies, across a range of social indicators - class, crime, economy, education, gender, marriage and family, media, punishment, and religion.

Founded in 1998, the Journalism and Media Studies Centre (JMSC) brings professional journalism education to Hong Kong’s premier university, creating an environment for vibrant interaction among students from Hong Kong, mainland China, Asia and the rest of the world.

The JMSC’s mission is to support civil society and an informed citizenry through a vibrant and professional news media, to enhance professional standards, to bolster journalistic integrity and to help students build vital communications skills valuable for any future career. The JMSC pursues these goals through its teaching programmes, research, professional services and its industry and academic partnerships.
The BASc curriculum equips students with an interdisciplinary focus and prepares them to make an impact by solving the world’s problems. Each student achieves these goals in a personalised and tailor-made manner whilst being supported by a mentor and other students from the BASc family.

Students will major in Interdisciplinary Studies where they will take five courses from each of the two pathways so that they gain knowledge from diverse disciplines. Students can also take an additional major/minors/electives to further enhance their interdisciplinarity.

*Students who major in Psychology are required to take 24 credits of introductory courses and 48 credits of advanced courses.
Flexible

- No quota!
- No selection!
- Free choice!

Students are offered great flexibility to explore their academic interests during the first year of studies by taking different social sciences introductory courses. Starting from the second year of studies, students may declare one of the following six disciplinary majors as their first major and further study on the selected discipline.

China Studies

Jointly organised by Social Sciences and Arts, the programme addresses the growing interest in the study of Greater China from a multi-disciplinary approach. Wide range of courses are offered to introduce China’s political, economical, social, and cultural traits in the past and present.

The major also offers experiential learning opportunities and exchanges that focus on China Studies on the Mainland, Taiwan, or any China Studies centre overseas.

Geography

Geography is a diverse discipline that involves both natural and social sciences with a focus on the major issues facing societies in a rapidly changing world.

This major provides students with an understanding of the relationships between people and the natural environment, how these relationships have changed with space and over time, and the role of geography in the issues and problems facing people, places and society.
Politics and Public Administration

This major aims to provide students with basic knowledge in political science and public administration and to develop students’ ability in critical analysis of complex political issues in the real world.

Students may choose to specialise in one of the following four streams: Comparative Politics, International Politics, Political Theory and Ethics and Public Administration.

Psychology

This major allows students to develop basic skills across all areas of psychology, including the biological and cognitive bases of behaviour, developmental changes, social influences, and psychopathology.

Students may pursue professional training in applied aspects of psychology (e.g. Clinical Psychology, Educational Psychology) and advanced research training in psychology after completion of the programme.

Social Policy and Social Development

This major aims to build students’ competency to become change agents in the society and their communities. Students are exposed to contemporary social development issues and social policy responses to these issues in the local and global contexts.

Students are equipped to be competent to work in non-profit, for-profit, and social enterprise sectors for social changes and to be innovators in these sectors.

Sociology

This major seeks to nurture students to become knowledgeable, critical and caring members of society.

The programme offers students a solid foundation in Sociology. Its wide ranging course offerings also allow students to examine in a more concentrated manner a number of specialist areas within the discipline, including media and culture, cultural heritage, and criminology.
Bachelor of Social Sciences (Government and Laws) and Bachelor of Laws
社會科學學士(政治學與法學)及法學士(雙學位課程)

Jointly offered by the Department of Politics and Public Administration and the Faculty of Law, the 5-year programme enables students to study two curricula and be awarded two degrees upon completion. The curriculum consists of a combination of Social Sciences and Law courses.

Satisfactory completion of five years in the programme leads to the award of the degrees of Bachelor of Social Sciences (Government and Laws) and Bachelor of Laws (LLB). Students may also choose at the end of the second year to exit with only a Bachelor of Social Sciences (Government and Laws) upon completion of the fourth year of study. The study of the fifth year for the two degrees is on a self-funded basis and the tuition fee is set at a higher level.

The Bachelor of Journalism is a communications-focused double-major curriculum for a digital age. Students use the journalism component of the curriculum to build critical thinking and communications skills across multiple media. By the end of the four-year curriculum, they will be able to produce accurate and deeply researched written work on a variety of subjects, shoot and edit compelling video documentaries, and create data-driven online journalism.

In their second year, each student will choose another academic major to combine with the journalism component, thus creating a bespoke degree that will allow them to explore fully their unique intellectual interests. Throughout the curriculum, the emphasis is on experiential real-world learning. All students will complete at least one summer internship at a media publication or other communications-focused organisation.

A diverse faculty and student body ensure a lively learning environment that feeds students’ curiosity about the world. Class size is kept small to foster classroom discussion as well as the family feeling that makes the Journalism and Media Studies Centre a very special place at HKU.

Project-based/ Placement-based Internships

Research Internships

Dual Degree:
BSocSc@HKU + MA@Geneva
The Internship Programmes are specially designed to encourage students to maximise their full potential by going beyond the confines of the campus, their academic discipline and geographical boundaries.

Local Internships

Local internships offer students the off-campus learning opportunities to work on a variety of social issues in Hong Kong. The settings include local and international NGOs, think tanks, political parties and social enterprises, etc.

Non-local Internships

Non-local internships provide students with placement opportunities abroad in various countries. There are two types of non-local internships: Placement-based internships and cross-disciplinary project-based internships (GloCal Projects).

Placement-based internships: Students will be offered a placement in private or non-profit organisations in Australia, Canada, Italy, South Korea, Taiwan, the United Kingdom and the United States, etc.

GloCal Projects: Students will be assigned to work on a project to gain first-hand experience to work with international NGOs and/or local community partners in India, Nepal, Thailand and Vietnam, etc. Through working the projects, students will apply community research skills in social sciences globally and make an impact locally.
Student Exchange Programmes

The University offers different exchange opportunities to all full-time undergraduate students with good academic and disciplinary standing. Through student exchange programmes, HKU students will study at partner institutions for one semester or one academic year to get a taste of studying abroad.

Students may also apply for credit transfer in order to fulfil the degree requirements at HKU. Scholarships and sponsorships will be provided to students according to their academic standing and financial needs.

Collaborating with more than 300 exchange partner institutions worldwide, more than 250 Social Sciences students benefit from our exchange programmes annually.

On top of the University-level exchange programmes, the Faculty has also established connections with the following internationally renowned universities to broaden students’ horizon and facilitate cultural exchange:

- University of Kent
- University of St Andrews
- NUS
- National Taiwan University
- University of Essex
- Universidad Comercial de Lovi Rousseau
Generic Components of the Undergraduate Curricula

To graduate with the undergraduate degree, students are required to complete 24 to 36 credits of Common Core Curriculum courses and 12 to 18 credits of Language Enhancement courses in Chinese and English as stipulated in the Regulations for First Degree Curricula.

Common Core Curriculum

The Common Core Curriculum is a series of interdisciplinary organised courses that aims to develop students with a broader perspective of the complexities and the interconnectedness of the issues in everyday lives; to cultivate students’ appreciation of cultures; to enable students to see themselves as members of global and play an active role as responsible individuals and citizens; also to enable students to develop the key intellectual skills that will be further enhanced in their disciplinary studies. The Common Core Curriculum is divided into four Areas of Inquiry (A0I): Scientific and Technological Literacy, Humanities, Global Issues and China: Culture, State and Society. All of them are organised around active learning and learning by doing.

English Language Enhancement Courses

English Language Enhancement courses include a 6-credit of Core University English and a 6-credit of English-in-the-Discipline. The courses aim to equip students with essential English language skills required for academic writing and speaking in the University.

Chinese Language Enhancement Course

Students can choose to take one Chinese Language Enhancement course out of three courses that are designed for Cantonese, Mandarin and non-Cantonese speakers to cater the specific needs of students from different backgrounds. The courses aim to train students to be effective communicators and life-long learners as well as to equip them for future careers.
Dual Degree Programmes

awesome!
HKU-Sciences Po

This 4-year undergraduate degree programme will give students two Bachelor’s degrees from two highly respected international universities – one from Europe - Sciences Po - and one from Asia - HKU. Students will spend the first two years in France and the third and fourth years in Hong Kong.

The learning experience at Sciences Po not only facilitates students’ understanding of, and builds bridges between, Asia and Europe, but also enhances their international exposures further with multinational companies.

www.socsc.hku.hk/hku-sciences-po.html

HKU-UC Berkeley

Students, upon successful completion of this 4-year undergraduate dual degree programme, will earn two Bachelor’s degrees - one from USA – UC Berkeley - and one from Asia – HKU. By spending the first two years at HKU and the third and fourth years at UC Berkeley, students shall obtain a Bachelor of Social Sciences from HKU, and a Bachelor of Arts from UC Berkeley.

Students will complete most of the compulsory courses of the major at HKU. They will also have to take disciplinary electives, and/or to pursue a second major or minor, plus free electives, at UC Berkeley.

www.socsc.hku.hk/hku-ucberkeley.html
In collaboration with the Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies Geneva (Geneva), the Faculty offers a concurrent degree “Bachelor of Social Sciences + Master of Arts” to BSocSc students. Students will complete 3 years of study at HKU and apply to Geneva for admission to one of their designated MA programmes.

On admission, students will complete their HKU 4th year of study in Geneva by taking graduate-level courses at Geneva, the credits of which will be transferred back to the HKU BSocSc degree. After successfully completing their 4th year of study in Geneva, students may obtain the BSocSc degree from HKU and stay on for an additional year to obtain an MA degree from Geneva. The learning experience at Geneva, which includes an optional internship in one of the 40 international organisations based in Geneva, will facilitate graduates to embark on careers in one of these organisations, such as UN Offices, WTO, and organisations in labour, telecommunications, human rights, HIV/AIDS, etc.

Student Ambassadors will be invited to take part in major events organised by the Faculty, serving as representatives of the Faculty to share their exciting and rewarding experience to guests, peers, prospective students and international students in the role of Faculty Student Advisers and/or Buddy Mentors, as well as provide support to Faculty’s campus activities, such as Information Day, Student Prize Presentation Ceremony and Congregation, etc.

All full-time social sciences undergraduate students are welcome to join. Newly registered Student Ambassadors will receive a little welcome pack containing surprise gifts. In addition to a Certificate of Appreciation, the Faculty will keep a tier point system to recognize student ambassadors’ efforts and participation. They will have the opportunity to receive more surprise gifts once they have accumulated certain tier points. The top tier “prize” would be a lunch with the Deanery and a feature article in the Faculty’s newsletter “Socientist”.

Graduate Voices

The dual degree programme was highly multicultural environment and fundamental for my admission. There are very few opportunities in higher education, giving you the time to reflect on who you truly want to become, cumulating academic and professional experiences as well as studying in two fascinating places between Europe and Asia.

The internship experience in different educational settings have enhanced my understanding on learning and development of children in different developmental stages. Through participating in different research projects and doing my own thesis, I have sharpened my analytical and research skills which are very important for educational psychologists as scientist-practitioners.

A key highlight for me would be going on exchange twice, first to UCLA and then to the University of Cambridge. Such opportunities not only provided me exposure to top-notch teaching and research opportunities but also improved my cultural intelligence.
